“Everyone who is born holds dual citizenship, in the kingdom of the well and in the kingdom of the sick. . . Sooner or later each of us is obliged, at least for a spell, to identify ourselves as citizens of that other place.”—Susan Sontag

The art of writing and the science of medicine offer very different approaches to some of the most intense and mysterious human experiences. The Literature and Medicine Series, jointly sponsored by the University of New Mexico Press and the University of New Mexico’s Health Sciences Center, brings together these two ways of understanding. Comprising fiction and creative nonfiction, the series showcases writings that explore the nature of health and healing and the texture of the experience of illness.

The Literature and Medicine series include writing about illness and healing by doctors, patients, and caregivers. The memoir is the genre most associated with this literature, but the series also features fiction and essays. Poetry, criticism, and policy studies will not be considered.

To propose a book, or for more information, please contact the series editors:

David Sklar, M.D., is Distinguished Professor of Emergency Medicine, University of New Mexico, and editor-in-chief of the journal Academic Medicine. The author of a memoir, La Clinica, he teaches health services research, public health, and ethics as well as continuing to teach and care for patients in the Emergency Department at the University of New Mexico Hospital.
dsklar@salud.unm.edu

Frank Huyler, M.D., is associate professor of emergency medicine at the University of New Mexico. He is the author of The Blood of Strangers: Stories from Emergency Medicine and two novels, The Law of Invisible Things and Right of Thirst.
fhuyler@salud.unm.edu

Elizabeth C. Hadas is director emerita of the University of New Mexico Press.
beth.hadas@gmail.com

Available in the University of New Mexico Press Literature and Medicine Series:

LA CLINICA: A Doctor’s Journey Across Borders, by David Sklar, M.D.
TENGO SED: A Novel, by James Fleming, M.D. Winner of the PEN Center USA Literary Award for Fiction
BEYOND WORDS: Illness and the Limits of Expression, by Kathlyn Conway
LEAVING TINKERTOWN, by Tanya Ward Goodman
THE YOUNG NEUROSURGEON: Lessons from My Patients, by Paul Edward Kaloostian, M.D.